

News! for Late Summer and Fall 2017

What can the agricultural landscape of Union County tell us about our history and culture?

In The Shape of Time in Buffalo Valley: Farmsteads and Barns of Union County, Pennsylvania, author Christopher Macneal (architect with Keirantimberlake of Philadelphia) discusses the history of farm making and barn building in the county, drawing upon his survey of buildings and farmsteads. This new Heritage book includes text, drawings, maps, and photographs to describe an important aspect of Union County history.

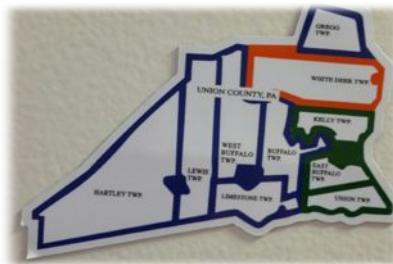

The Shape of Time in Buffalo Valley, Heritage Volume XXVI, will be available in the autumn of 2017. The book is free for UCHS members who renew for 2018, and for Life members. Renewal letters for 2018 will be sent out in November, however those who wish to renew early, when the book is available, may do so by visiting or contacting the UCHS office.

Dear Fellow Historians,

As I have mentioned before, I am often struck by the similarities of doing history and traveling. Both visit a landscape where people live, work, and speak differently; where values and perspectives differ from our own; and where belief systems and problem solving take different forms. In travel, we notice these differences across space; in history, we recognize these differences across time. As traveler Henry Miller once stated, "One's destination is never a place, but always a new way of seeing things." Our destination is not a specific time, but always a new perspective, an explanation for why things are as they are. In that manner, history informs the present and future.

Chris Macneal's book in the Union County Historical Society Heritage series, entitled The Shape of Time: Barns and Farmsteads in Union County Pennsylvania, interprets the history of barns and barn building in Union County as the negotiation of continuity and change. Barns changed over time in response to economics, available resources, marketing demands, and technological advances, but they still remained true to recognizable building traditions of former generations. These traditions characterize aspects of their cultural inheritance and their way of thinking. They were carried over from their European ancestors, but they are never static. New ideas weave their threads into the fabric of ethnic and cultural meaning and memory. Communities both support and resist change. We inherit the insights and understandings of those who went before, and we work with them in our own ways, the ways of now.

Margaret Mead observed, "As the traveler who has once been from home is wiser than he who has never left his doorstep, so a knowledge of one other culture should sharpen our ability to scrutinize more steadily, to appreciate more lovingly our own." So as we learn anew the old ways across time in our place, which is our history, we move forward with our heritage community's wisdom and make our own new way for the future also to interpret and negotiate.

Join the Union County Historical Society and take advantage of its interpretation of Union County history. Attend our programs, visit the office and the Dale/Engle/Walker house and property, and view exhibits of Union County artifacts from the past. Understand old ways, old things, and old thinking; evaluate them, and use those insights to build your own ways to give to the future.

Events at Dale/Engle/Walker by Diane Lengle

Celebrate Rural Heritage – July 2017

Another Celebrate Rural Heritage day has come and gone. It was filled with learning, fun, and good eats – and lots of children with their questions and enthusiasm. For the first time in several years, we also had rain.

So many things make this a memorable event, but mostly it is the demonstrators and interpreters who share the love of their craft or skill, and bring the farm to life.

The theme this year was "Over There – Over Here: Life on the Home Front during WWI" commemorating the US entry into World War I in 1917.

The full day of activities included the Liberty Garden, home canning talk, demonstrations of early 1900s crafts, working antique tractors and lathe, fun activities and games for children, good food, and music.

The "Raising Barns in Buffalo Valley" exhibit showcases vintage tools, and photos of historic and contemporary barns and their construction. The exhibit can be seen when the house is open in the fall.

Liberty Garden Grows at Dale/Engle/Walker House

One of the important home front activities during WWI was growing a "Liberty Garden." While rural families always had home gardens, this took on added significance during wartime.

Thanks to the Good Time 4-H Club, and Country Farm and Home of Mifflinburg, the Dale/Engle/Walker House has a small version of what a Liberty Garden would have been like. The 4Hers researched which vegetables would have been grown, dug the bed, and planted the crops: corn, beets, cabbage, carrots, lettuce and more. Sam

Rishel of the club did a wonderful job of building the fence and gate, and Jay Bowersox, our senior farm expert, has been keeping it weeded.

The herb garden that was planted by the club two years ago flourishes – to the point that it often needs to be cut back.

Come out to the house and see if you can identify the herbs and crops. You will be amazed at what can be done in a small area.

WWI and Union County – July 2017

General Pershing (portrayed by David Shuey) and Captain Dwight Eisenhower (portrayed by Dan Bower) talked about World War I with enthralled visitors to the house on July 9. On display were authentic WWI military uniforms and gear, photos and posters, and other material on The Great War. This impressive exhibit on WWI can be seen when the house is open the first two Sundays in September and October.

Dale/Engle/Walker House Tours and Exhibits

Sundays, Sept. 3 and 10, and Oct. 1 and 8, 2 - 4 p.m.

471 Strawbridge Road, Lewisburg

Guided tours offered at the c.1793 house, including original hearth with period cookware, wagon shed with vintage farm equipment, milk house, and the Liberty Garden. Exhibits: WWI military uniforms, gear and photos; WWI-era kitchenware, and "Raising Barns in Buffalo Valley."

Matt Wagner to be the New Editor of ACCOUNTS of Union County History
<http://unioncountyhistoricalsociety.org/Accounts/Feb2016/TOC.html>

After 7 years, Tom Greaves is ending his editorship of our on-line journal, ACCOUNTS of Union County History. The Society Board reviewed candidates and has appointed Matt Wagner to be the new editor of ACCOUNTS. Tom Greaves' issue of this October will be his last. Starting with the February issue of 2018 Matt Wagner will be editor.

Matt is a lifelong resident of Mifflinburg and former Band Director at Mifflinburg Area High School. He continues his music vocation as Choir Director/Organist at St. Matthew's Lutheran Church in Shamokin Dam. In addition to his musical interests, he is a long-time Union County history enthusiast. He is looking forward to taking on the position of Editor for ACCOUNTS.

The essential priorities and working arrangements of ACCOUNTS continue: you don't need to be an historian to publish in ACCOUNTS. Manuscripts are welcome from anyone who knows an aspect of the county's fascinating history, is willing to share it, and wants to ensure that the knowledge will not be lost. Matt Wagner will work with you to shape your rough draft into an article.

Matt will be working with several authors already developing articles for the Spring, 2018, issue and seeks more articles for that issue, and for subsequent ones. Do you have a topic you would like to develop into an article? Don't wait. Please contact Matt at <mcwagner.mcw@gmail.com> with your idea.

To get you thinking, here are some ideas from Matt about topical areas that could lead to a valuable article for ACCOUNTS. Consider "telling the story" as a way of beginning.

Topics to consider:

- Accounts of businesses past and present (clothing stores, hardware stores, barbers, pharmacies)
- Accounts of physicians of Union County
- Accounts of community holiday traditions from the past
- Accounts of family history
- Memories of farming activities (dairy, butchering, apple butter making)
- Memories of residents that have shaped the history of Union County
- Memories of the railroads and activities at railroad stations of Union County
- Accounts from military personnel who served in Korea, Vietnam, Gulf War, Afghanistan, etc.

I warmly welcome Matt to the Editor's chair and predict that under Matt's guidance ACCOUNTS will continue to play a leadership role in documenting and preserving Union County history.

Welcome Matt!
